Boys & Girls Club staff honored

NEWTON, N.H. — The Yankee Chapter of the Association of Boys & Girls Club Professionals recently announced its professional award recipients at the Boys & Girls Club of Haverhill's Camp Tasker in Newton, N.H., and two staffers from the Greater Lowell club were recognized.

Angel Brunelle was recognized as Resource Development Professional of the Year. In three years at the club, Brunelle has increased revenue from $1.6 million to more than $2 million through relationship- building and innovative strategies, such as online bidding, monthly giving, social media and third-party fundraising.

Caroline Howard was named Support Professional of the Year. Howard has been with the club two years and has increased efficiency and strategic capacity. She has updated the club's financial management, payroll and human-resources systems, and has improved financial reports to make them clearer for non-finance staff and board members to understand.

The Greater Lowell Boys & Girls Club's Caroline Howard, left, was named Support Professional of the Year, and Angel Brunelle, third from left, was named the Resource Development Professional of the Year. They are surrounded by Boys & Girls Club members whom their work impacts.
